

- User starts application and CGEM
- CGEM executes policies held on central server and checks file signatures and running processes on user device
- CGEM sends user device status to central server
- Central server confirms user device status to application server

- Session Initiation Manager (SIM) server receives user status
- Application instance manager determines which application instance user should connect to, with network quality flagged to user
- User status is passed to appropriate application server and user connects
- SIM server receives status updates from CGEM and reports any status change to the application server